HOME

A top-down view of a dark, richly grained wooden surface. In the upper right and lower right corners, there are piles of light-colored wood shavings, some curled into spirals. Scattered across the right side of the image are several hand tools, including chisels and gouges, with worn wooden handles and metal heads. The lighting is soft, highlighting the textures of the wood and the tools.

Powder pigments for resin give a pearly sheen - which, depending on the angle of light, makes metallic pieces submerged in the resin shimmer in a unique way, as if embedded in the structure, and even with a 2mm layer of resin, the effect remains three-dimensional.
